INTEREST IN THE SCHOOLS.

IT IS not infrequent to hear complaints about the administration of the public schools and the circulation of false and slanderous reports are not uncommon. The fault rests with parents who take such little interest in the affairs of the schools that at a meeting of parents called for last night to act on an important question there was not more than a handful present. The subject was the proposed sale of the old high school and to ratify the action of the trustees in submitting a proposition to the county commissioners. The sale price has been fixed by a board of appraisers appointed by the district court at $5500. The trustees asked $7000.

Under the old school law of Nevada parents have the right to pass upon all questions calling for the expenditure of money for building, and it was natural to expect that the attendance would be representative. At least 200 families are interested in the school system, and it was fair to suppose that those having children growing up in Tonopah would show their desire to learn something more about the operations of the school law than was manifested last evening. To say the trustees were disappointed is to draw a faint conclusion, as it was the desire to secure a full and frank exposition of the views of parents on the question of disposing of the property that has outgrown its usefulness.

Under the law as contained in section 891 school trustees have the power and it shall be their duty:

"To buy or sell any schoolhouse or schoolhouse site to be bought or sold by a vote of the heads of families of the district; provided, that in districts where there shall be fewer than ten such heads of families, no school or schoolhouse site shall be sold without the approval of the deputy superintendent of public instruction. * * * Whenever the school trustees shall decide to hold such meeting they shall give at least ten days' notice by posting at least three notices of such meeting in three conspicuous places in the district."

Not alone was the meeting posted as prescribed, but it was advertised for ten days in advance. This eliminates any excuse parents may have for this exhibition of indifference and, while the trustees may flatter themselves that this is a personal compliment, it does not savor well for those who are constantly criticizing the conduct of the schools. If the people want something, there is no better way than to speak right out in meeting, and the law of Nevada is a reincarnation of the old New England meetinghouse law, by which everybody took an active part in the management of public affairs.

The duties of school trustees at best are onerous and the gentlemen who are giving their time to school matters without any compensation have the right to expect some stronger manifestation of public interest.

The Deseret News, which usually is among the best informed newspapers of the west, is responsible for the statement that the "Tonopah Mining company, the greatest dividend-payer of the camp of Tonopah, has declared a dividend of two and a half cents and an extra dividend of the same amount. This company has disbursed over $11,000,000 to its stockholders." Of course, this is an error that could only have crept into the financial columns in the absence of the regular editor. Everybody is supposed to know that the Tonopah Mining company pays a regular dividend of five times that amount every three months and has been paying 40 cents a share for over a year, or $400,000 a quarter.

Jessie Wilson not alone is willing to be a thirteenth bride of the white house, but she is smashing all precedents by refusing to distribute embalmers in the form of bride cake to ardent admirers who are looking for eligible young men to ensnare into the bonds of matrimony.

When such a rabid partisan organ as the Reno Journal can rise up and say to the senators from this state that the people will not stand for the infliction of McIntosh in the office of United States district attorney, it means that something is wrong with the democratic spoilsman.

Three thousand idle clothing makers in Philadelphia certainly do not boost for the Wilson free trade administration.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 25.—Theodore Roosevelt today addressed one of the most scholarly audiences he has faced since he came to South America. His topic was "The Democratic Movement in a Republic," and he spoke before the oldest institution for higher education on the continent, the University of Chile.

The university was founded by the Jesuits in 1743. Colonel Roosevelt reminded his audience that although Chile, as a nation, was younger than the United States, its colonial history was far longer. "Chile's history," he said, "as known to the people of European stock, began three-quarters of a century before the Puritans landed at Plymouth Rock."

His review of the democratic movement in the United States was confined mainly to the twelve years since he first became president. During this period, he said, "The political movement in the United States has represented chiefly the effort to put into actual and concrete performance the principles which in the abstract all intelligent men admit to be true."

"In barest outline," he said, "our problems were in the first place to restore the government to the people so as to make the fact correspond with the theory, and in the second place and even more important to use the governmental power when thus restored so as to make us an industrial and economic as well as a political democracy."

Colonel Roosevelt explained his views regarding the judiciary and "big business." During the last half of the nineteenth century, he asserted, "the leaders of reaction in the United States, political and financial alike, gradually grew to recognize in the judiciary their most powerful potential ally." The judges, he said, by their training and aloofness of their position on the bench, have little real knowledge of or sympathy with the lives and needs of the ordinary hard-working toiler. The judges, he declared, were in reality "irresponsible lawmakers, with a strong natural bias against every species of reform legislation for social and industrial relief and fair play."

He repeated his campaign declarations that "big business has come to stay" and that the problem was "so to control it and supervise it as to prevent there being any improper advantage taken by big business at the expense of small business."

This Lung Remedy
Known Fifteen Years

If everybody who suffers from or is threatened with Lung Trouble would investigate the many cases where recoveries were brought about through the use of Eckman's Alternative, a remedy which has stood the test for nearly fifteen years, a strong opinion in favor of it would be the result. What it has accomplished for others it may do for you. Read this:

"Gentlemen: Last December I took a sudden cold which developed into pneumonia. The doctor did all he possibly could for me, but could not clear my lungs. One day I saw a testimonial in one of the papers telling of the good results some one had from taking Eckman's Alternative for a trouble of the lungs. I began taking it and soon felt good results. My lungs began to clear up and I began to gain in strength and was soon well enough to take up my work again. I am in better health now than I have been at any time. I am a missionary worker for the New York Home for Homeless and Friendless Boys." (Affidavit)
